evolution
mutation
variation selection evolutionary
change
darwin modern argument genetic view
effects mutation-and-altered-development propensities
bias developmental mutations
theory
laws
synthesis
process mutationism
natural direction consequence probability beneficial
variants
mayr
dynamics quantitative creativity
effect theoretical basis discontinuity
influence mutationist
evidence asymmetries
vavilov single assume coefficient step
work maynard
terms
manner
character
time
states
kind modifications
devries
punnett mutationists
equation
initiative lack instance selective source
role
pool empirical smith
frequencies
phenotypes development
biases
morgan phenotype heritable molecular arise
opposed gc alternative
al
gale
small species
results
principle causal option
thomson
research
conditions
ideas characters
fisher
rate due codons
rates favored relative adaptation
acids
form gene chance
factor introduction population
set factors
model causation
rare
century
code observed differences
orr
problem
phenotypic
fixation genetics important
altered
alberch mutational evolutionists
king allele
neutral
amino discrete creative claim infinitesimal directionality
case
variant
emerge
expected
types
size
long understanding fitness adaptive acid stoltzfus
law correlation
bateson